REPORT

S. 1, Special Branch, ~~XXXXXX~~ File No. Date October 27, 1941.

SUBJECT: Strike of Carpenters and Masons - settlement and proposed meeting of building contractors on October 30, 1941.

Through direct negotiations between representatives of employers and those of employees, the strike of approximately 3,000 casual carpenters and masons, which was declared on October 16 to enforce a demand for 100% increase in wages, was settled on October 25 and the workers resumed on October 26.

Both parties have agreed upon the following increases in wages to be effective from November 15:-

Classification of workers	New wages per day	Existing wages per day
Carpenters	$3.30	$2.00
Masons	$3.10	$1.90
Apprentices (Carpenters)	$1.20	$0.75
Apprentices (Masons)	$1.10	$0.70

These workers are supplied with food by the employers.

At 3 p.m., October 30, some 50 building contractors will hold a meeting on the premises of the Tsung Myi Society, 7th floor, Sz Soh Building, Nanking Road, to enable the representatives to report on the terms of settlement. Messrs. Kiang Zang Hung (江長庚), Zia Ping Hung (謝秉衡) and Chang Chi Kwang (張繼光), representatives of the employers, called at Special Branch at 3.35 p.m., October 27 and requested permission for the holding of the proposed meeting.

SUBJECT: Shanghai Special Municipality Masons & Carpenters Union - application for registration.

Forwarded herewith is an application for registration from the Shanghai Special Municipality Masons & Carpenters Union (上海特別市水木業職業工會), upstairs of No.278 Chekiang Road, with a branch office inside the Building Contractors Trade Association, No.105 Shiao Bee Loong, Foh Yeu Road, Nantao.

When a detective of Special Branch visited the premises of the head office of the Shanghai Special Municipality Masons & Carpenters Union at upstairs of No.278 Chekiang Road, as given in the application, he found no such union in existence, but the address housed an organization known as the Shanghai Municipality Fried & Cooked Food Shop Owners' Association (上海市油炸食品業同業公會), which is registered with the Municipal Police, in possession of registration certificate No.C-254.

It is of interest to note that the labour union in question once established an office at Lane 272, 9^{North} Chekiang Road, which was raided and closed down by the Municipal Police on April 15, 1941, for instigating a strike of 10,000 masons and carpenters in the Settlement and French Concession on April 13 to agitate for an increase in wages and for directing acts of intimidation in the Settlement. They however resumed work on April 21 and 22, when their employers granted an increase in wages. During the strike, acts of intimidation were committed by the strikers in the Settlement and a number of them were arrested and

A joint despatch dated April 14, 1941, was addressed to Special Branch Headquarters by the Shanghai Municipality 1st District and 6th District Masons & Carpenters Labour Unions, informing the Police that a satisfactory settlement was reached in the recent labour dispute between the building contractors and their employees and appealing for Police assistance against possible intimidation at the hands of a number of disgruntled workers who were still on strike and were apparently being instigated by professional agitators. It is obvious that the unions attempted to mislead the Police. In the despatch, it stated that the two unions have been in existence since 1927, and were formerly registered with the now defunct Local Tangpu but are now under the sponsorship of the Shanghai Special Municipality Social Movement Direction Committee, Chinese Chamber of Commerce Building, North Soochow Road. It has maintained a joint communication address at Room 401, 210 Kiukiang Road, which is the home address of one Sze Loong-ziang (施龍祥), the Chairman of the union, as given in the application. Sze Loong-ziang and Zau Zung-ching (邵順卿), the authors of the joint letter are the Standing Committee members of the Shanghai Municipality 1st & 6th District Masons & Carpenters Unions respectively.

Another joint despatch dated June 16, 1941 was received at Special Branch Headquarters from the Shanghai Municipality 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 6th District Masons and Carpenters Unions, informing the Police of the establishment of a joint office in the Building Contractors Trade Association, No. 105 Shiao Bee Loong, Foh Yeu Road, Nantao, with the approval of the Shanghai Special Municipality Social Movement Direction Committee, and of the intention of these unions to detail men to canvass new members in the Settlement.

In October 1941 the Shanghai Municipality Masons & Carpenters Union submitted, on behalf of the workers, a demand for an increase in wages to the Shanghai Municipality Building Contractors Trade Association, 105 Shiao Bee Loong, Foh Yeu Road, Nantao, and also at Room 727 Tse Shu Building, Lane 353, 1. Nanking Road (not registered with S.M.P.). On receipt of the letter, the trade association applied to Shanghai Municipal Police for permission to hold a meeting to discuss the demand of the workers on the premises of the Tsung Nyl Zoe, 7th floor Tse Shu Building, Nanking Road, on October 21. However, about 3,000 casual workers of the trade went on strike on October 16, as a protest against the employers of having wilfully ignored the time-limit, which the workers claimed should be on October 19 instead of October 21. They returned to work on October 26, when a wage increase was granted.

Following the strike, handbills purporting to have emanated from the Joint Representatives Group of Carpenters and Masons, in support of the strike made an appearance in the Settlement.

On October 17, a joint despatch was received at Special Branch Headquarters from the Shanghai Municipality 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 6th District Masons & Carpenters Unions (with offices at Room 401, House 210 Kiukiang Road), requesting the Police to place on record the present strike declared by a portion of masons and carpenters on October 16 to enforce a demand for a 100% increase in wages.

As no agreement was reached during the meeting held on October 21, between representatives of the employers and employees, for negotiating a settlement in the strike, a suggestion was put forward at the meeting that representatives of both the labour and capital attend Special Branch Police Headquarters for mediation but this was rejected by the labour representatives.

As will be seen from the above facts the four unions are incorporated into one organization, who would be influenced by the Shanghai Special Municipality Social Movement Direction Committee which is the chief supporter of the Committee, rather than by the Municipal Police.

It is also to be noted that the masons and carpenters are of low mentality and have not the initiative to be active in the union affairs. It is confidentially learned that the union is entirely in the hands of the clerk who is a follower of Hu Shou-chi (胡寿池), a professional agitator, who is also at present a committee member of the Social Movement Direction Committee and concurrently Chairman of the "Chinese Ratepayers' Association" of the Nanking

SUBJECT: Shanghai Municipality Building Contractors Association - meeting held on October 21

Between 3 p.m. and 6.45 p.m. October 21, a meeting of representatives of the capital and labour of the local building trade was held on the premises of the Tsung Nyi Society (正誼社), 7th floor, Sz Soh Building, Nanking Road, to negotiate a settlement in the present strike declared by casual masons and carpenters on October 16 to enforce a demand for a 100% increase in wages. About 60 persons, including Messrs. Chang Chi Kwang (張繼光) and Kiang Zang Kung (江長庚), representing the employers; Tsai Tse San (蔡芝山), representing the Masons and Carpenters Union, and Koo Tsung Kuo (顧振國), representing the workers, were present.

No settlement was reached at this meeting as the workers insisted upon an increase of $1.60 per diem in their wages, while the employers agreed to grant the workers a wage increase of only $1 per diem. In view of the deadlock, a suggestion was put forward at the meeting that both the labour and capital attend the Special Branch, Police Headquarters, for mediation, but this was rejected by the labour representatives.

The masons and carpenters are still on strike to-day, October 22.

SUBJECT: Joint despatch from "Shanghai Municipality First, Second, Third and Sixth District Masons and Carpenters Unions" - requesting Police to place on record the strike of masons and carpenters.

Forwarded herewith, together with translation, is a joint despatch dated October 17, 1941 received at Special Branch Headquarters from the Shanghai Municipality First, Second, Third and Sixth District Masons and Carpenters Unions (with offices at Room 401, House 210 Kiukiang Road), requesting the Police to place on record the present strike declared by masens and carpenters on October 16 to enforce demands for a 100% increase in wages.

Of the four joint senders of the despatch, the "Shanghai Municipality First and Sixth District Masons and Carpenters Unions" were formerly the regular labour unions for local masons and carpenters, but due to circumstances prevailing in this locality, these two unions have recently possibly against their wishes, been affiliated, together with the two other unions, with the Shanghai Branch of the Social Movement Direction Committee, Chinese Chamber of Commerce Building, North Soochow Road. An application for registration with the S.M.P. is under consideration.

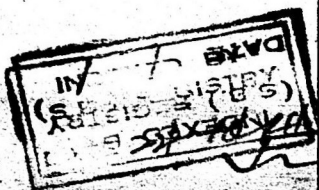

On October 16, some 3,000 casual masons and carpenters, employed in the Settlement, French Concession and Chinese territories, went on strike to enforce a demand for a 100% increase in wage. They are still out to-day, October 21.

As previously reported, a general meeting of representatives of both the employers and employees

Translation of a joint dispatch dated October 17, 1941 addressed to Special Branch, S.M.P., by the "Shanghai Municipality First, Second, Third and Sixth District Masons and Carpenters Unions".

To the Special Branch,

S. M. P.

Sirs,

Sometime ago we received a letter from Ghui Kwang Hwa (桂光華) and other members of the Joint Representative Group of local Masons and Carpenters, stating that owing to the continuous rising cost of living, they are unable to make ~~their own~~ ends meet with their present earnings and they requested us to approach the Building Contractors Association to increase their wages. After several discussions, the Building Contractors Association agreed to call a meeting of representatives of the labour and capital at 3 p.m. October 21 to hold a discussion on the issue. Ghui Kwang Hwa and other representatives of the masons and carpenters were accordingly informed by letter to attend the meeting at the appointed time and date.

However, the workers, holding the view that the date of the meeting was far too remote and that the employers showed lack of sincerity in the negotiations, declared a "taiekung" strike on the morning of October 16 and by 4 p.m. the same day, they struck work completely. Although our Unions have detailed officials to advise the workers to resume work and not to resort to lawless activities pending a solution of the dispute at the meeting to be held on October 21, our efforts have ended in failure due to the laborers' determination, fearing a possible aggravation of the situation, therefore, and this Committee of the Special Branch will place the matter on record.

Carpenters and Masons

To labour friends,

Owing to the recent heavy increase in the commodity prices, we put forward about a month ago a demand for an increase in our wages, but the employers show no sincerity and wilfully hold our demand at bay. In consequence, we are compelled to go on strike en bloc as from to-day and hope that our labour friends will not be unduly disturbed among themselves during the period of strike and that they will refrain from privately undertaking any work prior to the issue of a notice calling for the resumption of work. If any one is found to be working privately, suitable punishment will be meted out to him. It is hoped that all the labour friends will pay due attention.

SUBJECT: Strike of local carpenters and masons

Reference the report submitted on October 16 on the proposed meeting to be convened on October 21 on the premises of the Tsung Nyl Society (正誼社), 7th floor, Sz Soh Building, Nanking Road, by local building contractors in conjunction with carpenters and masons over a revision of the latter's wages, information to hand elicits that on October 12 the employers informed certain workers' representatives to that effect and that a general discussion over a wage-increase would take place either in a week or ten days, which was then mutually agreed upon.

However, a portion of the workers, upon being informed of the date of the proposed general meeting, immediately accused the employers of having wilfully ignored the time-limit, which the workers claim should be on October 19 instead of October 21 as scheduled. As a protest they commenced a strike on October 16.

The portion of carpenters and masons at present affected, consisting chiefly of casual workers and numbering some 3,000 covering the three areas, are still on strike to-day, October 17. The present wages being $4.40 per diem, they are now demanding an increase of 100%.

Despite the obstinate and threatening attitude of the carpenters and masons, the strike on October 16 and was not broken by professional agitators. The employers have persisted in their Forwarded herewith, together with translation, is a joint despatch dated June 16, 1941 received at Special Branch Headquarters from the Shanghai Municipality First, Second, Third and Sixth District Masons and Carpenters Unions. The despatch is jointly sealed and chopped by the four unions.

The text of the communication is to inform Police of the establishment of a joint office in the Building Contractors Guild (水木公所), No. 105 Shao Bi Loong (硝皮弄), Foh Yue Road (福佑路), Nantao, and of the intention of these unions to detail men to canvass for new members in the Settlement.

It is significant to note that the Shanghai Municipality First and Sixth District Masons and Carpenters Unions, which have heretofore been the regular labour unions for local masons and carpenters, are now the joint senders of the present despatch. It may be concluded that these two unions have been coerced or otherwise compelled to put their seals on the despatch and this point is supported by the following facts :-

- (1) In a previous joint letter sent to the S.M.P. on April 17, 1941, Sze Loong Ziang, a standing committee member of the Shanghai Municipality First District Masons and Carpenters Union, used a chop bearing the characters: "Loong Ziang" (龍翔), while Shao

These discrepancies tend to show the reluctance of these men in putting their chop and signature to the present despatch, but in order to avoid unpleasantness, they use different chops instead.

The daily pay of a worker of the union, including sawyer, has been fixed at $4 effective from April 20, 1941. Four cents is the charge for every foot of wood sawn, but it will be less in the case of those workers who are supplied with food and/or who are engaged to saw materials of a second-hand or hard nature. Special charges are fixed for lumber yards and furniture shops.

Carpenters are not allowed to undertake the work of a sawyer. In case they violate this regulation, the following fines are to be imposed :-

- a) Building contractors will be fined 30% of the charges for the sawing work; they should also publish in the newspapers a notice and distribute circulars to that effect.
- b) Carpenters should pay 15% of the charges as a fine.

SUBJECT: Labour dispute between Building Contractors and workmen - settled.

(Vide Special Branch Reports dated 22/3/41 & 27/4/41).

(Vide Special Br. Report dated - 10/4/41).

In March, 1941, meetings were held between the representatives of building contractors and the representatives of workers (masons, carpenters etc.) to discuss a demand for an increase in wages which was submitted to the Shanghai Municipality Building Contractors Trade Association by the Shanghai Masons & Carpenters Union on behalf of the workers. The contractors finally agreed to grant an increase of 30 cents in wages to masons, 90 cents to carpenters, sawers and plasterers and 25 cents to apprentices.

This increase would have been effective from April 16, 1941 when their wages would be as follows :

	Original pay	Increase	New pay
Masons	$0.95	$0.80	$1.75
Carpenters	$1.00	$0.90	$1.90
Sawers	$1.10	$0.90	$2.00
Plasterers	$1.20	$0.90	$2.10
Apprentices	$0.45	$0.25	$0.70

However, on April 13, 1941, instigated by professional agitators, some 10,000 masons, carpenters, sawers, plasterers and apprentices employed in the local building trade, became dissatisfied with the increase granted and declared a strike to enforce a demand for a 150% increase in wages. Following the declaration of the strike, acts of intimidation were committed by the strikers in the Settlement and a number of them were arrested and charged accordingly.

On April 14, a joint despatch was received at Special Branch Headquarters from the Shanghai Municipality 1st District and the Shanghai Municipality 6th District Masons & Carpenters Unions requesting Police protection against possible intimidation at the hands of a number of disgruntled workers, who were on strike. These two unions were registered with the defunct Tangpu prior to the 1937 Sino-Japanese hostilities. They were also responsible for negotiating for the wage increase which is mentioned in the 1st paragraph of this report.

On April 15, a so-called Shanghai Municipality 2nd District Masons & Carpenters Lien Nyi Society, Lane 272/9 North Chekiang Road which was affiliated with the Shanghai Branch, Social Movement Direction Committee 527 Range Road, was raided & closed by members of the Special Branch. This society, as stated by the persons arrested by the S.M.P., was the directing organ for the acts of intimidation committed in the Settlement.

Following the strike declared on April 13, negotiations were conducted through the medium of a third party, whereby it was agreed between the employers and employees that a further increase of 10 cents to the workers and 5 cents to the apprentices ^{be} ~~was~~ granted, this increase to be effective from the date of resumption of work. Their wages will now be as follows :-

Unions - a joint despatch to S.M.P.

Forwarded herewith, together with translation, is a joint despatch dated 14.4.41, received at Special Branch Headquarters from the Shanghai Municipality 1st District and the Shanghai
Municipality 6th District Masons & Carpenters Unions.
The despatch is jointly sealed and chopped by the two unions.

The general theme of the communique is to inform the Police of the satisfactory settlement reached in the recent labour dispute between building contractors and their employees which substantiated
the previous report dated April 10 (flagged below)
and to appeal for Police assistance against possible intimidation at the hands of a number of disgruntled workers who are now on strike and who - with the exception of those working in Nantao, Chapei and Hongkew districts - are apparently being instigated by professional agitators entertaining ulterior motives.

According to the despatch, the two unions have been in existence since 1927 when they were Masons & Carpenters Unions respectively.

The Shanghai Municipality 1st District Masons & Carpenters Union exercises its jurisdiction over an area south of Nanking and Bubbling Well Roads, including the French Concession and Nantao, whilst the Shanghai Municipality 6th District Masons & Carpenters Union exercises its control over the area north of Nanking and Bubbling Well Roads, including Chapei.

The significance of the nomenclature, viz the 1st District and the 6th District, shows it has followed the district-allotment of the defunct Tangpu branches which is still being observed by loyal building workers only.

The present situation in this trade is as follows:- Approximately 10,000 carpenters & masons in the Settlement and French Concession went on strike on 13.4.41 to enforce a demand for 150% increase in wages. They are still out today April 19th.

This strike was instigated by the Shanghai Municipality 2nd & 3rd District Masons & Carpenters' Union formerly located at Lane 272, No. 9, North Chekiang Rd. (This address was raided and closed down by Sp. Br. on Apr. 15.)

This Union is affiliated with the Shanghai Branch of the Social Movement Direction Committee, which is taking up mediation at its office at 527 Range Road.

Translation of a letter received from the "Shanghai 1st District Masons and Carpenters Union" and the "Shanghai 6th District Masons & Carpenters Union".

To Special Branch, S.M.P.

These unions came into existence in 1927. In the same year, with the approval of official organs and in the presence of their representatives, we signed an agreement with the Building Contractors Association. It was agreed that we could function within the International Settlement and French Concession.

As a result of cooperation between capital and labour, no strikes were declared by the workers in the trade during the past fourteen years and all disputes were settled amicably through our mediation. Recently the workers demanded an increase in wages owing to the high cost of living and the employers, at our request, convened a meeting on March 26 with the permission of the Settlement Authorities for the purpose of discussing the matter. It was decided that carpenters, who are receiving $1.00 per day, be granted an increase of 90 cents per day, making a total of $1.90; that masons, who are receiving 95 cents per day, be granted an increase of 80 cents per day, making a total of $1.75 per day; and that apprentices be granted an increase of 25 cents per day. All the workers are given food. In other words, the workers were granted 90% - 100% increase in wages. This decision was published in the press by the employers for the information of those concerned.

Unexpectedly a portion of the workers, at the instigation of outsiders, have organized a "Masons and Carpenters Welfare Society" in the Settlement for the purpose of agitation. They compelled the workers to declare a strike under the pretext that the recent increase would be insufficient to meet the growing cost of living, thereby endangering the peace and good order of the Settlement. Our efforts to stop the strike were of no avail as the workers had been deprived of their tools by the agitators.

Our unions are legitimate and cooperating with the employers. Following the return of the "National Government" to Nanking, we affected registration with the Shanghai Branch of the Social Movement Direction Committee. In order to avoid misunderstanding in connection with the present strike, which was caused by certain agitators, we have applied to the Shanghai Branch, Social Movement Direction Committee, for investigation. In addition, we hereby apply to you for assistance ~~and~~ ~~agitation~~ in order to maintain peace and good order and to facilitate our labour movement.

To Special Branch, S.M.P.

Sirs,

The Shanghai Municipality Masons and Carpenters Union, on behalf of the workers in the trade, have applied to this association for an increase in wages owing to the high cost of living. In view of the difficulties of the workers and the possible consequences of a refusal to their demands, we have to consider an increase in wages which, however, has to ^{be} decided upon by the majority of the employers. Therefore, at 3 p.m. March 26, Wednesday, on the premises of the Tsung Nyi Zee, 7th floor, Sz Soh Building, Nanking Road, it is proposed to hold a meeting of representatives of the workers and employers for the purpose of coming to an agreement. It is expected that about 100 persons will be present. Your approval for the holding of the meeting is respectfully requested.

AN APPEAL TO OWNERS AND FELLOW

THE SHANGHAI BUILDING CONTRACTORS' GUILD

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a letter has been received by this Guild from some of our members, stating as follows:—

"On account of the rapid decline of foreign exchange and high increase in costs, we have suffered very heavy losses and have asked in our previous letter for your assistance. We wish to thank you in this connection for your advertisement in the newspapers appealing to the owners. Since then we have been communicating with them for a compromise. Some have made reasonable increases, some only expressed their sympathy without taking any action, and others simply escaped from giving clear expression. As we cannot carry on with further delay, we shall be inevitably compelled to suspend our work and wait for a reasonable settlement. In view of other complications which might arise from the owners' tendering the incomplete jobs to new contractors after our suspension, we request that you would advertise in the newspapers to the effect that all jobs suspended owing to the present situation shall not be taken up by other persons without first obtaining consent of the original contractors."

Under the present circumstances, our member contractors have really encountered serious difficulties, which have set a big obstacle to the completion of their work and they have no way out of these difficulties unless some amicable compromise be made. We have previously published in the newspapers an appeal which we trust has received the attention of the owners.

We are in deep sympathy with our member contractors as regards what they have enumerated in their letter. But we would advise them not to suspend their work before careful consideration is made as, once the work is suspended, it will be more difficult to reach a settlement and additional disputes may arise thus making the situation more complicated.

As to the incomplete jobs to be taken up by new contractors, less anxiety should be felt in consideration of our strong union and the majority of members who have high business morals and will no doubt refrain from profiting for themselves at other people's expense.

Since the agreements for construction work are mostly specified with a time of completion, and the owners would expect to have use of their property in due time, suspension of jobs will cause unnecessary losses. Even if the owners should give the incomplete jobs to their new contractors there is no possibility of coming to terms without an increase in price. Instead of delaying the jobs and losing valuable time, it will be much better to effect an early completion of work at a reasonable increase in cost. We believe this point will be thoroughly appreciated by the owners.

For the interests of both the contractors and the owners we have herein-above reiterated what we are aware of and hope that our appeal will be kindly accepted.

Subject (in full).....Workmen of building contractor concerns alleged to be making demand for an increase in wages.

Made by.....D.S.I. Kao Yen Ken.....Forwarded by.....C. Glaser

With reference to the attached translation of a newspaper report appearing in the Central China Daily News dated October 4 on the subject of workmen of building contractor concerns declaring a "tai-kung" strike as a demand for an increase in wages, enquiries made at the Building Contractors' Guild, Room 727, Lane 353, 1 Nanking Road, show that no such strike or labour dispute exists.

It is learned that because of the present increase in costs, the building contractors would like their customers, (landlords), to increase the building construction charges. The landowners in general refuse to make any concessions on the grounds that the building construction charges were agreed upon in written contracts signed between the building contractors and the land-owners, and legally speaking no alterations can be made.

WORKMEN OF BUILDING CONTRACTOR CONCERNS SUBMIT
DEMAND FOR AN INCREASE OF WAGES

Owing to the heavy rise in foreign exchange resulting in a rise in the prices of commodities, some time ago the workmen of the local building concerns submitted a demand to the owners for an increase of their wages with a view to maintaining their livelihood. However, because of no satisfactory settlement, their demand resulted in a "go-slow" strike.

Nevertheless the workmen in question fear that the owners of the properties concerned will engage other workmen to carry on the jobs by contract after the work has been suspended by them. Considering that this will certainly cause some other disputes between the workmen on strike and those who will be engaged to carry on their work, the Building Contractors' Guild has therefore advised all its members not to carry on the uncompleted work in order not to seize the interests of other members of the same guild, and hope that the owners in question will grant the increase so as to prevent the movement from being further developed.
